In all events, a graduate of the study programme will have knowledge and understanding in the field of:

A. Knowledge and Understanding

The bachelor demonstrates knowledge and understanding in a field of study that builds upon and supersedes their general secondary education. Knowledge and understanding is typically at a level at which the bachelor, whilst supported by advanced textbooks, is able to include some aspects at the forefront of their field of study.

We distinguish two levels of qualification: a basic understanding, corresponding to knowledge of the essentials and fundamentals of the field in question, such as knowing what the field is, knowing how to apply knowledge in said field, and knowing how to further develop oneself in the field in question, and an advanced understanding, corresponding to in-depth knowledge about a topic in question.

Qualifications:

1. Basic understanding of all (8) key areas of Artificial Intelligence.

The 8 key areas are:

- a) (Cognitive) Psychology;
- b) Computational Linguistics;
- c) Context of Artificial Intelligence (History, Philosophy, Ethics);
- d) Intelligent Autonomous Agents and Multi-Agent Systems;
- e) Interaction (Human-Computer Interaction, Communication);
- f) Knowledge Representation and Reasoning;
- g) Machine Learning;
- h) Problem Solving (Search, Decision Making, Optimisation).

B. Applying Knowledge and Understanding

Bachelors can apply their knowledge and understanding in a manner that indicates a professional approach to their work or vocation, and have competences typically demonstrated through devising and sustaining arguments and solving problems and/or designing systems within their field of study. They are able to analyse, model and solve prototypical Artificial Intelligence problems by using known Artificial Intelligence methods and techniques.

7. Openness to interdisciplinary cooperation and ability to effectively participate therein as an academic professional;
8. The ability to create an effective project plan for solving a prototypical Artificial Intelligent problem in a realistic/real life context.
9. Manage one's own learning and development, including time management and organizational skills.
10. The ability to transpose academic knowledge and expertise into (inter)national social, professional and economic contexts.
11. Readiness to address new problems in new areas, emerging from scientific and professional fields.

C. Making Judgements

The bachelor has the ability to gather and interpret relevant data (typically within the field of study) and to formulate judgments that include reflection on relevant social, academic or ethical issues.

Qualifications:

1. Ability to critically review results, arguments and problem statements from accepted perspectives in the field of Artificial Intelligence and neighbouring disciplines;

2. Initial competence in search and critical processing of professional literature in Artificial Intelligence; 3. Acquaintance with the standards of academic criticism; 4. Awareness of, and responsible concerning, the ethical, normative and social consequences of developments in science and technology, particularly resulting from Artificial Intelligence. D. Academically appropriate communicative skills; the bachelor can: a. Communicate ideas effectively in written form and through the use of Information and Communication Technology; b. Make effective oral presentations, both formally and informally; c. Understand and offer constructive critiques of the presentations of others. E. Learning Skills The bachelor has developed those learning skills that are necessary for a successful further study characterized by a high degree of autonomy (typically in the context of a master or a specialist profession). Qualifications: 1. Reflection on one's own style of thought and working methods and readiness to take the necessary corrective action; 2. Recognize the need for continued learning throughout a professional career.
2. For students who started the programme before 2026-2027 (or in 2026-2027, but follow one of the 'old' specialisations), the following intended learning outcomes apply: Without prejudice to the provisions of paragraph 1, a graduate of the specialisation Socially Aware Computing and Intelligent Systems will have the following knowledge and understanding in the field of: a) Specialisation Socially Aware Computing: advanced understanding of and insight in the field of hybrid artificial intelligence (interplay of artificial and human intelligence), including the required background knowledge of socially aware artificial intelligence and ambient intelligence.
